Dear Roar

Thank you for your response. You have not clearly answered our questions but based on what you have said it appears you are still working on dam projects. The high standards you refer to did not previously prevent you from being involved in projects in ethnic states where there was a high risk of conflict and human rights violations because of dam development, and which were opposed by local communities.

It is disturbing that you appear to be willing to keep working on such projects, which will require working with the illegitimate military junta.

Based on this, unless we receive further specific information regarding your company ending its involvement in dams in Myanmar until such time as there is a democratically elected federal government and such projects have the support of local populations in ethnic states, we will place Scatec on our 'Dirty List'.
