Foreword

Civilians used by the military as human shields on the front lines of conflict. Families burned to death by soldiers. Villagers shot in the back by soldiers and pro-military militias as they tried to run away. Children killed by artillery shelling on their villages. Men and women tortured to death in military custody.

This new report by the Assistance Association for Political Prisoners (AAPP), Towards Accountability: The Urgent Need for Renewed International Attention to Sit-Tat's Crimes Against Humanity in Burma, is harrowing reading. It paints a grim picture of the Myanmar military's trail of atrocities throughout 2022. Since the February 2021 military coup, millions of people have taken to the streets across the country and peacefully protested for their votes to be upheld and a democratic civilian government to be established. AAPP has documented how junta security forces have responded with brutality—killing more than 3,000 and arbitrarily arresting over 19,000 people.

AAPP's collection of data on arbitrary arrests and deaths since the coup are widely referenced by governments, the United Nations, and civil society organizations. This is especially significant given the junta's efforts to shroud its crimes.

This new report goes beyond the numbers, providing the details of what happened to the victims—their names, the dates, the places, and circumstances of killings and other abuses.

Crimes against humanity are considered among the gravest human rights abuses under international law. The specific crimes against humanity documented in this report include murder, imprisonment, torture, rape, sexual violence, and persecution, along with other violations of international human rights and humanitarian law.

Under the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (ICC), crimes against humanity are serious specified offenses that are knowingly committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack against any civilian population. "Widespread" refers to the scale of the acts or number of victims. A "systematic" attack indicates a pattern or methodical plan. AAPP's data demonstrates the widespread, systematic, and ongoing nature of these crimes.

Human Rights Watch and AAPP have long worked together to document human rights violations with the goal of holding the Myanmar military accountable for its actions. I first met AAPP's co-founder and joint secretary, Bo Kyi, in 2008 in New York, when he accepted Human Rights Watch's Alison Des Forges Award—an award that celebrates the valor of individuals who put their lives on the line to protect the dignity and rights of others. We've worked together in the years since, first pressing for the release of political prisoners in a closed Myanmar state, then for the safeguarding of free expression and the abolition of repressive laws in Myanmar's brief period under civilian leadership. Since the coup, AAPP has become an invaluable source of information to help us and others cross-check facts in documenting the military's numerous atrocities perpetrated against the population.

According to the report, of the 1,250 people in Myanmar killed in 2022, nearly half were extrajudicial killings by junta security forces or deaths in prison or other places of detention.

It's no longer a matter of knowing that crimes against humanity have been committed in Myanmar. The question now is how the perpetrators can be held to account.

Critically, the AAPP sets out clear recommendations on what the international community should do. This includes governments supporting a referral of Myanmar to the International Criminal Court to expand the court's reach beyond its current investigation limited to investigating crimes against humanity related to the forced deportation in 2017 of more than 740,000 Rohingya into Bangladesh. Myanmar is not a member of the Rome Statute, the court's founding treaty, so only the UN Security Council can refer all grave international crimes in Myanmar to the ICC for investigation.

The report also calls for better coordinated targeted sanctions by foreign governments on junta officials and for ASEAN member states to adopt legislation necessary to support the exercise of universal jurisdiction to facilitate the prosecution of those responsible for these crimes.

Given the gravity and extent of the abuses faced by the people of Myanmar, there is a pressing need for concerned governments to take strong, coordinated action to advance accountability and bring a measure of justice for the victims.

Executive Summary

In this report, AAPP details evidence of Sit-Tat's¹ crimes against humanity in Burma since the failed military coup, focusing on 2022 and following its previous report, Accountability for the Junta Criminals. The evidence herein supports the findings of the Independent Investigative Mechanism for Myanmar that crimes against humanity have been and continue to be committed in Burma since the failed coup on February 1, 2021.² With this report, AAPP calls on international actors to embrace the responsibility to collaborate to hold Sit-Tat accountable for its crimes through international justice mechanisms, such as the International Criminal Court (ICC) and universal jurisdiction where available. As ongoing victims of Sit-Tat's crimes, the people of Burma desire international support in seeking accountability for and deterring the recurrence of conflict and mass atrocities in the country.

To provide evidence of Sit-Tat's crimes against humanity, this report is structured under the sub-articles of Article 7(1) of the Rome Statute, which reflects international standards for these crimes. Specifically, this report provides quantitative and qualitative data regarding Sit-Tat's crimes against humanity of murder, imprisonment, torture, rape and sexual violence, and persecution. All quantitative data is as of December 31, 2022.

Article 7(1)(a) Murder: In 2022, Sit-Tat killed 1,250 pro-democracy supporters across every state/region, impacting 145 townships. Sit-Tat killed around 40 percent of them by detainment. Sit-Tat also killed civilians by, inter alia, gunshots, artillery shelling, and airstrikes.

Article 7(1)(e) Imprisonment: In 2022, Sit-Tat detained 3,738 pro-democracy supporters across every state/region, impacting 262 townships. Many of those detained were civilians. As of December 31, 2022, Sit-Tat had detained a total of 16,704 pro-democracy supporters since February 1, 2021, with 13,217 remaining in detention on December 31, 2022.

Article 7(1)(f) Torture: Through interviews with 18 released political prisoners, AAPP uncovered some of Sit-Tat's torture methods used against detainees. AAPP also documented 45 deaths which mostly likely resulted from torture in detainment. Sit-Tat's torture methods included, inter alia, severe physical and sexual assault and deprivation of food, water, and sleep.

Article 7(1)(g) Rape and Sexual Violence: Sit-Tat's use of rape and sexual violence remain extremely underreported. In 2022, 11 cases of rape in conjunction with murder were reported, mainly in Sagaing and Magway. AAPP also documented cases of rape and sexual violence, including verbal and physical assault, against civilians in military interrogation centers.

Article 7(1)(h) Persecution: Across the country, Sit-Tat has arbitrarily seized civilian property of pro-democracy supporters, which may amount to persecution. In 2022, Sit-Tat seized 534 pieces of property across 132 townships, impacting 419 pro-democracy supporters. Sit-Tat's seizures included 435 houses. According to AAPP documentation, property seizure is often connected with an intent to detain, or following the detainment of, a civilian due to perceived or actual support for the pro-democracy movement.

¹ Sit-Tat refers, hereinafter, to the military and its armed branches that staged the failed coup on February 1, 2021. Sit-Tat, or an armed group, is used in this report because the military no longer deserves the prestigious name of Tatmadaw, as it has abused its power and abandoned its primary duty to protect the people of Burma.

² Rep. of the Indep. Investigative Mechanism for Myan., para. 30, U.N. Doc. A/HRC/48/18 (2021) [hereinafter IIMM 2021 Report]; Rep. of the Indep. Investigative Mechanism for Myan., para. 7, U.N. Doc. A/HRC/51/4 (2022) [hereinafter IIMM 2022 Report].

Key Recommendations

As elucidated by this report, there is a growing body of evidence indicating that Sit-Tat has committed and continues to commit crimes against humanity across Burma. With this evidence in mind, AAPP calls on international actors—including, but not limited to, UN Member States, intergovernmental organizations, and non-governmental organizations—to take immediate and decisive action in pursuit of accountability for these crimes, as well as justice and support for the people of Burma. These recommendations are the following:

- AAPP calls on UN Member States and the broader international community to continue their support of the IIMM. To fulfill its mandate and pursue accountability for Sit-Tat's crimes against humanity, the IIMM must be provided the proper resources.
 - Specifically, AAPP calls on the UN Fifth Committee and the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions to recommend—and the General Assembly to approve—considerable funding for the IIMM.
- AAPP calls on ICC Member States to refer the situation in Burma to the Court with the further recommendation that the ICC accept the NUG's declaration accepting the Court's jurisdiction.
- AAPP calls on the UN Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in Myanmar to look more closely at and draw international attention to Sit-Tat's use of property seizure against civilians across the country.
- AAPP calls on ASEAN Member States to adopt universal jurisdiction statutes that could facilitate the prosecution of Sit-Tat for committing crimes against humanity, providing a pathway to justice for the victims and their families across Burma.
- AAPP calls on governments to immediately impose targeted sanctions against all State Administration Council (SAC) members³ and other known Sit-Tat officials.
 - Specifically, AAPP calls on the U.S. government to impose Global Magnitsky sanctions on all SAC members and other known Sit-Tat officials.
- AAPP calls on UN Member States to provide generous resources for mental health and psychosocial support, as well as other material support and interim reparations, for survivors and victims, including those still in Burma and those who have fled.

³ See infra Appendix E for a list of SAC members as of December 31, 2022.

Introduction

It has now been two years since Sit-Tat's failed coup d'état on February 1, 2021. When peaceful demonstrations brought nearly the entire country to a standstill, the response by Sit-Tat was brutal and indiscriminate violence. Since then, Sit-Tat has pillaged and destroyed villages; forced tens of thousands into arbitrary detention; tortured civilians to death; committed sexual violence against civilians; and seized hundreds of homes. Today, Sit-Tat continues to commit crimes against humanity with complete impunity, and evidence of those crimes has only increased.⁴ At the same time, the people of Burma continue to push back against Sit-Tat and its relentless brutality through the Spring Revolution forces, namely the Civil Disobedience Movement (CDM), the People's Defense Forces (PDFs), and the defection movement.

Contextualizing AAPP's Documentation of Crimes Against Humanity

In July 2022, the Independent Investigative Mechanism for Myanmar (IIMM) stated for the second time⁵ that crimes against humanity have been committed in Burma following the failed coup:

*[T]here are ample indications that since the military takeover in February 2021, crimes have been committed in Myanmar on a scale and in a manner that constitutes a widespread and systematic attack against a civilian population. The available evidence suggests that the crimes against humanity of murder; torture; deportation and forcible transfer; rape and other forms of sexual violence; persecution; and imprisonment have been committed.*⁶

Further, the IIMM stated that credible reports show that these crimes have and continue to be committed in Yangon, Nay Pyi Taw, Bago, Mandalay, Magway and Sagaing Regions, as well as “Chin, Kayin, and Kayah States and elsewhere.”⁷

In furtherance of these conclusions, this report provides quantitative and qualitative data describing Sit-Tat's commission of the crimes against humanity of murder; imprisonment; torture; rape and other forms of sexual violence; and persecution. Moreover, AAPP's data come from the same nine regions and states that the IIMM has identified, as well as Burma's five other regions/states and Nay Pyi Taw. Accordingly, this report lends further credence to the findings of the IIMM, while providing additional details on the human impact of these crimes through selected case profiles of individual victims. In providing this evidence, AAPP has structured this report under Article 7(1) of the Rome Statute, which is applied by the ICC and provides an internationally-recognized understanding of crimes against humanity. Alternative pathways to hold Sit-Tat accountable for its crimes may also be available, as mentioned below.

Seeking International Accountability for Sit-Tat's Crimes

As the legitimate representative government of Burma, the National Unity Government (NUG) has taken steps to bring Sit-Tat—and the junta-appointed SAC—before the ICC and other international justice mechanisms.⁸ Although the NUG lodged a declaration in 2021 accepting the ICC's jurisdiction from July 1, 2002, the ICC has only acknowledged receipt of the NUG's declaration and has not taken any further action.⁹ In addition to accepting the ICC's jurisdiction, the NUG has also endorsed legal proceedings in domestic courts which apply the principle of universal jurisdiction to hold Sit-Tat accountable for its crimes.¹⁰

Notably, in December 2022, the United Nations Security Council (UNSC) took an important step in recognizing the violence civilians face in Burma by adopting Resolution 2669, the first-ever UNSC resolution on Burma.¹¹ The Resolution “express[ed] further deep concern at all forms of violence across the country, and attacks against civilians and civilian infrastructure, including educational, health and energy infrastructure and facilities, and attacks on businesses and public properties.”¹² While this recognition from the UNSC could be a meaningful step toward international accountability for Sit-Tat's crimes, the Resolution failed to explicitly mention Sit-Tat's scorched-earth tactics which have completely destroyed villages and towns in Sagaing Region, Magway Region, Chin State, and elsewhere.¹³

Accordingly, to support the people of Burma and pursue accountability, the international community needs a more comprehensive understanding of the violent, inhuman tactics that Sit-Tat relentlessly uses against civilians in Burma. To that end, this report provides more lucid detail regarding the extent of Sit-Tat's crimes and serves as an update to AAPP's July 2022 report on Sit-Tat's crimes against humanity entitled Accountability for the Junta Criminals.¹⁴

Report Scope and Methodology

The goals of AAPP's documentation and verification efforts are to end the vicious circle of Sit-Tat's impunity and to contribute to transitional justice in Burma. Throughout 2022, AAPP continued to collect evidence of Sit-Tat's human rights violations through first-hand reports from in-country and border-based networks, as well as open-source data from media, civil society, and other verified reporting.

AAPP conducted in-depth, semi-structured interviews in Burmese with 38 victims of Sit-Tat's violations.¹⁵ The interviewees gave free, prior, and informed consent to be interviewed and to have their experiences shared in this report. None of the interviewees received compensation for participating in the interview.

The numerical data herein account for Sit-Tat's violations from January 1 to December 31, 2022, as documented by AAPP. However, the selected case profiles from AAPP's interviews include information related to Sit-Tat's violations in both 2021 and 2022. Political prisoners were not released in significant numbers in 2022, meaning fewer testimonies from individuals who experienced detainment in 2022. In addition, survivors of human rights violations must be in secure locations and surroundings before interviews are conducted, which may delay their testimonies.

In its work, AAPP maintains a structured approach to data collection and verification, as well as strict confidentiality in its data security and storage policies—all of which are described below.

Data Collection Process: AAPP's Documentation Department uses data triangulation, which increases the amount of information collected for each case. Data triangulation involves reviewing multiple sources related to the same event to gather additional information for documentation and verification purposes. In AAPP's documentation system, the data analysts record each victim of Sit-Tat's human rights violations with an individual identification number; their biographical data; a brief case history; the location of the violation; arrested, released, and deceased dates (as applicable); and the cause of death (as applicable).¹⁶

Data Verification Process: AAPP conducts a robust verification process of reports of Sit-Tat's human rights violations. If a first-hand verified source reports a violation, AAPP considers this report verified. First-hand sources include members of AAPP's in-country and border-based networks. If a second-hand verified source reports a violation, AAPP will consider it verified once it has been cross-referenced with other verified sources. Second-hand sources include reports from credible media outlets. Likewise, if a report from an unverified source is corroborated through cross-referencing with verified sources, AAPP considers it verified. Unverified sources include messages AAPP receives from individuals through its email and social media accounts. The data triangulation process for Sit-Tat's violations is ongoing even after a report is verified.

¹⁵ The interviewees were 18 political prisoners who were released and 20 civilians who had their properties arbitrarily seized by Sit-Tat and managed to flee from arrest.

¹⁶ Data collection and verification is impacted by, inter alia, communication barriers, network connectivity issues, resource limitations, and above all, security issues. Therefore, AAPP's verification process prioritizes confirming each case through data triangulation and through cross-referencing with media reports.

Data Security: AAPP's documentation and verification process is strictly confidential. The data is stored in at least three different secure locations. Data within AAPP is also segregated; different departments do not have immediate access to others' databases. To share data between departments, AAPP has internal procedures to make the necessary requests to the relevant department heads. Even when data is shared, sources who contact AAPP remain confidential.

Data Storage Policy: AAPP intends to utilize the data obtained from interviews and other confidential sources for the purposes of transitional justice, unless the data providers (e.g., the interviewees) request the data be destroyed. The data will be kept confidential and secure at least until the justice process is complete. Continued storage or destruction of data will be carried out according to the needs of Burma when the justice process is complete. The data may be useful for, inter alia, future studies and reflection on Burma's history, including lessons learned from the Spring Revolution.

Evidence of Sit Tat's Crimes Against Humanity

Article 7(1)(a) Murder

As of December 31, 2022, AAPP had documented the murders of 2,688 pro-democracy supporters at the hands of Sit-Tat since February 1, 2021. In 2022 alone, Sit-Tat killed 1,250 pro-democracy supporters.¹⁷ AAPP has verified 1,145 cases and has not verified 105 cases.¹⁸

As shown in Error! Reference source not found., the victims were 1,006 men and 225 women, as well as 19 individuals whose gender could not be confirmed. As shown in Error! Reference source not found., Sit-Tat killed 160 children, including 18 children under five years old, with the youngest being six months old. Sit-Tat also killed 242 adults, ages 19-30, and 431 adults, ages 31-60. Sit-Tat killed 112 individuals over age 60, including 27 individuals over age 80. The ages of 305 victims remain unknown.

As shown in Table 1, Sit-Tat killed civilians in 145 of 330 townships across the country, with the highest numbers in Sagaing and Magway Regions. In Sagaing Region alone, Sit-Tat killed 641 civilians in 30 of 37 townships.¹⁹ The disaggregated figures of mass killings, including the geographical coverage by killing method (Error! Reference source not found.) and by month (Error! Reference source not found.), also show a multiplicity of victims across the entire country and a clear pattern of violence.²⁰

¹⁷ AAPP excluded the deaths of the resistance group members who died during armed fighting against Sit-Tat. However, the deaths of resistance group members were captured alive and killed in Sit-Tat detainment were included here.

¹⁸ For more information about AAPP's data verification process, see supra section Research Scope and Methodology.

¹⁹ Thirty-seven townships include the three townships of the Naga Self-Administered Zone in Sagaing Region.

²⁰ This is the information documented by AAPP. The actual numbers are likely much higher.

Table 1: Murder Victims by State/Region (2022)

AAPP has so far identified nine killing methods used by Sit-Tat in 2022, as described in Appendix A and used in Table 2. Starting with the most common, those killing methods were: (1) detainment, 504 cases (40.32 percent); (2) shot, 292 cases (23.36 percent); (3) artillery shelling, 217 cases (17.36 percent); (4) airstrikes; (5) set fire alive; (6) physical assault; (7) rape or sexual assault in conjunction with murder; (8) landmine; and (9) vehicle ramming. Included in these data are deaths resulting from Sit-Tat's scorched-earth campaigns, which employed airstrikes, artillery shelling, and ground troop attacks.²¹

Taken together, detainment, shooting, and artillery shelling represented 1,013 (81.04 percent) of Sit-Tat's murders in 2022. Of those who were killed by detainment, 45 deaths most likely resulted from torture—29 during interrogation and 16 in prison facilities. In this report, deaths in detainment also account for individuals who killed when used as human shields or taken as hostages.²²

²² For descriptions of each killing method identified herein, see infra Appendix A.

Killing Method:	Shot
Victim Names:	Myint Oo, Nay Zar Aung, Paing Paing, Yupa, Aung Min Naing, Hla Soe, Mae Gyi, Thura, Tin Htwe, San, and an unidentified person
Arrest Date:	June 6, 2022
Deceased Date:	June 6, 2022
Case History:	Sit-Tat's ground troops raided Kan Phyar Village in Myinmu Township, Sagaing Region, in the afternoon. The soldiers came into the compound of Myat Saw Nyi Naung Pagoda, where displaced civilians were taking refuge in a Buddhist monastery. They searched the motorbikes parked in the compound and said they found a gun hidden under one of the motorbikes' seats. They asked who owned the bike, but the villagers said they did not know. As a result, the soldiers set all the bikes on fire. After that, they singled out around 30 men out of the 100 displaced villagers, and gave them 10 seconds to start running. When they ran, around 20 soldiers began shooting at them from behind, resulting in the death of six men. Another three were shot to death in front of other villagers after they were told to place their hands on their heads. Two other villagers were found dead inside the burnt Buddhist monastery. One of the victims was a 16-year-old boy named Paing Paing who suffered from polio and had mental disabilities.

Killing Method:	Detainment (Interrogation)
Victim Names:	Kyaw Myo Min, Pan Myint, Ko Ko Maung
Arrest Date:	June 22, 2022
Deceased Date:	June 30, 2022
Case History:	Kyaw Myo Min, lawmaker and chairman of the National League of Democracy (NLD) in Bilin Township, Mon State, was found dead in a ditch located 300 feet from where two former NLD members, Pan Myint and Ko Ko Maung, were buried. Kyaw Myo Min was elected as a member of Parliament representing Bilin in the 2020 election. According to the reports, Kyaw Myo Min was shot in the head, and his hands were cuffed behind his back. Sit-Tat arrested Kyaw Myo Min, Pan Myint, and Ko Ko Maung near Lel Ka Te village on June 22, after they ran into a group of 100 troops advancing from Mae Pali strategic hill in Bilin. Their hands were tied behind their backs, and they were taken to the Dawkangyi Village monastery, where they were beaten during interrogation. On June 30, they were killed. The bodies were found near Dani Chaw Village on July 2.

Article 7(1)(e) Imprisonment or Other Severe Deprivation of Physical Liberty

As of December 31, 2022, Sit-Tat had detained 16,704 civilians since the failed coup, with 13,217 remaining in detention.²⁴ In 2022, Sit-Tat detained 3,738 civilians, with 3,729 of these cases (99.76 percent) verified by AAPP.

Of the 3,738 detainees, 2,763 men (73.92 percent), 971 women (25.98 percent), and 4 LGBT²⁵ persons (0.10 percent) were detained in 2022. Sit-Tat detained 129 children, including 14 children under age five; 456 youth, ages 19-30; and 439 adults, ages 31-60. There were 34 detainees over age 60. AAPP has not yet verified the ages of 2,680 detainees, which are excluded in Figure 6 below.²⁶

As of December 31, 2022, Sit-Tat had detained pro-democracy supporters in 262 townships with the highest number of detainees in Yangon Region, followed by Mandalay, Sagaing, Magway, Bago, and Tanintharyi Regions. As shown in Table 4, in Yangon Region, Sit-Tat detained 880 individuals across 43 out of 45 townships, followed by 645 detainees across all 27 townships in Mandalay Region; 477 detainees across 31 out of 37 townships, including the three townships in Naga Self-administered Zone in Sagaing Region; and 453 detainees across 23 out of 25 townships in Magway Region.

²⁴ These are the numbers documented by AAPP. The actual figures are likely much higher.

²⁶ A detainee's age is considered verified if it has been confirmed through AAPP's data triangulation process or through cross-referencing with media reports. See supra section Research Scope and Methodology.

Table 6: Sit-Tat's Detainment in 2022 (Geographical Coverage by Month)

Article 7(1)(f) Torture

Sit-Tat uses torture against civilians in Burma regardless of gender, age, and physical or mental abilities. As previously mentioned, of those who were killed in detainment in 2022, AAPP documented 45 deaths which most likely resulted from torture—29 during interrogation and 16 in prison facilities. As documented by AAPP,²⁷ Table 7 below lists some of the torture methods used by Sit-Tat in police custody and in military interrogation centers. The case profiles following Table 7 indicate Sit-Tat's use of some of these torture methods against political prisoners during interrogation and detainment.

Torture Methods Used by Sit-Tat

Code	Description of torture method (TM)
TM-01	Forcing a detainee to sit on a stool with handcuffs while covering head with a hood
TM-02	Depriving a detainee of sleep by continuously interrogating them, sometimes for several days
TM-03	Depriving a detainee of enough water and/or food for days, sometimes forcing the detainee to drink toilet water
TM-04	Beating parts of the detainee's body, such as their head, back, buttocks, and legs, with, e.g., a rubber truncheon, a wooden or bamboo stick covered with plastic pipe, or a wire rope
TM-05	Forcing detainees to kneel on the ground with rocks under their knees
TM-06	Slapping the detainee repeatedly
TM-07	Burning parts of the detainee's body
TM-08	Kicking the detainee's face, head, stomach, and/or other parts of their body
TM-09	Putting a gun or a grenade into the mouth or pointing it at the head, sometimes counting down from 10 and threatening to kill a detainee if they did not answer the interrogator's questions properly
TM-10	Covering the face with a wet cloth and pouring water on the face
TM-11	Giving electric shock to the body of a detainee
TM-12	Raping the detainee, forcing the detainee to be raped by others, torturing or mutilating the detainee's sexual organs, or threatening sexual violence to force the detainee to provide information that they want
TM-13	Stabbing or cutting parts of the detainee's body with a sharp knife

Table 7: Torture Methods Used by Sit-Tat

²⁷ AAPP interviewed 18 political prisoners who were released between late 2021 and early 2022.

Selected Case Profiles: Survivors of Torture in Military Interrogation Centers

Codename:	S-01
Arrest Date:	April 10, 2021
Location:	Yangon
Interrogation Period:	5 days (April 10-14)
Prison Sentence:	3 years
Released Date:	October 18, 2021
Interview Date:	June 9, 2022
Torture Methods:	TM-03, TM-04, TM-05, TM-06, TM-07, TM-08, TM-09, TM-10, TM-11
Reason of Arrest:	On April 7, 2021, a bomb explosion occurred near S-01's house in Yangon. On April 10, the military and police forces came to S-01's house. They were composed of men in military and police uniforms as well as plainclothes officers. S-01 did not know their ranks but saw Brigade 77 badges on the uniforms of soldiers. When they found an NLD flag, they searched all three stories, saying they wanted to check every story of the house; S-01 was alone at that time. They found a protest flag, a loudspeaker, and photos of Daw Aung San Suu Kyi. They found 28 million Kyats worth in U.S. Dollars, which was S-01's own money. Based on these materials and the cash, they accused him of supporting the Committee Representing Pyidaungsu Hluttaw (CRPH) and CDM, seized all of the aforementioned items, and arrested S-01. There was no warrant, and valuables were confiscated from S-01's residence.
Interrogation center:	S-01 was interrogated first in a police station and transferred to a military interrogation center called Yay Kyi Ai, a notorious detention center since the time of former military dictator General Ne Win, who arrested and tortured his political opponents in this center. After his detainment at Yay Kyi Ai, S-01 was again transferred to Shwepyithar military interrogation center.
Physical injuries:	Facial scar on the left side, loss of hearing in one ear, an injury of the throat, scars on the body due to being beaten with wire rope
Mental injuries:	Trauma due to severe torture, including being repeatedly told that he was sentenced to death; feeling frightened of hearing loud sounds and seeing wire rope and other materials that were used during S-01's torture

Released Date:	October 19, 2021
Interview Date:	August 10, 2022
Torture Methods:	TM-04, TM-07, TM-08, TM-09, TM-12, TM-13
Reason of Arrest:	S-02 was arrested together with other six protesters during a protest. The junta forces cracked down on the protest using smoke bombs and real bullets to disperse the crowd of protesters. The soldiers were from the 77 th Division and they forced S-02 and the others to hold their hands up and kneel on the street. The soldiers confiscated their phones and took them to a police station and a military interrogation center for interrogation. S-02 was then sent to Insein Prison on May 11 and released on October 19, 2021.
Interrogation center:	S-02 was interrogated first in a police station and transferred to the Shwepyithar military interrogation center located in Shwepyithar Township, Yangon Region. S-02 underwent severe torture for four days.
Physical injuries:	Two ribs from S-02's right side were broken and hearing in S-02's right ear was impaired.
Mental injuries:	After being released from prison, S-02 felt like jumping into a river, even when seeing soldiers from a distance. S-02 felt shaken with fear when hearing sounds like opening an iron door.

Codename:	S-03
Arrest Date:	October 27, 2021
Location:	Hainggyikyun Town, Ayeyarwady Region
Interrogation period:	10 Days (October 27-November 5, 2021)
Prison Sentence:	Not given prison sentence
Released Date:	February 2, 2022
Interview Date:	April 12, 2022
Torture Methods:	TM-03, TM-04, TM-05, TM-08, TM-09, TM-12
Reason of Arrest:	After the failed coup, an arrest warrant under section 505(A) for S-03 was issued with an attached photo on August 8, 2021 at the Sanchaung police station. Therefore, S-03 could no longer live in Yangon and ran away to Yinmarbin. There, S-03 joined and worked with local strikes, but it became unsafe there too, so S-03 left for Hainggyikyun Town, Ayeyarwady Region, where S-03 was arrested. The military and police came inside S-03's house with guns pointed and without announcing who they were. S-03 found out that among

	them were the Battalion Commander and Police Chief, who were leading and investigating S-03's case. They took S-03 directly to a military base even though the warrant was still at Sanchaung police station, and thus not present at the time of the arrest. S-03 was released on February 2, 2022. When S-03 was released, they forced S-03 to sign papers and threatened that if S-03 was involved in politics again, they would capture and detain all of S-03's family, as well as seize their properties for the junta.
Interrogation center:	S-03 was interrogated at a military base in Hainggyikyun Town.
Physical injuries:	Injuries from being beaten on the back, head, and legs; injuries from being punched and kicked in the face
Mental injuries:	Not mentioned during the interview

Codename:	S-09
Arrest Date:	June 10, 2021
Location:	Yangon
Interrogation period:	14 Days (June 10-24, 2021)
Prison Sentence:	-
Released Date:	-
Interview Date:	January 21, 2022
Torture Methods:	TM-02, TM-04, TM-08, TM-09
Reason of Arrest:	S-09 was arrested where S-09 was residing on June 10 by several security and police forces led by a Battalion Commander. The reason that they gave for the arrest was that a student union meeting was being held in that place and the union members living there were behind the PDF-related movements in Yangon.
Interrogation center:	S-09 was brought to the military interrogation center at 9 Mile, where S-09 was interrogated and tortured for seven days. Then S-09 was transferred to Shwepyithar military interrogation center, where S-09 was again interrogated and tortured for seven more days. Finally, S-09 was sent to Insein Prison in Yangon.
Physical injuries:	Wounds from being beaten with a bamboo shaft
Mental injuries:	Not mentioned during the interview

Article 7(1)(g) Acts of Rape and Sexual Violence

Although there have been reports of rape and sexual violence since Sit-Tat's failed coup, these cases have been extremely underreported.²⁸ Nonetheless, Sit-Tat's use of rape and sexual violence against civilian populations has been repeatedly confirmed.²⁹ As of December 31, 2022, 11 cases of reported rape in conjunction with murder³⁰ were documented by AAPP in 2022, primarily in Sagaing and Magway Regions. The victims were five adult women and five girls under age 18; AAPP could not verify the age of one female victim. The cases of three of these victims are described below.

Selected Case Profiles: Victims of Rape in Conjunction with Murder

Case ID:	HTE-20220601-01568 & KHI-20220601-01570
Victim Names:	Htet Nay Chi Min & Khin Saw
Age:	22 & 49
Arrest Date:	February 22, 2022
Deceased Date:	February 23, 2022
Location:	Kawlin Township, Sagaing Region
Case History:	Khin Saw and Htet Nay Chi Min were killed by the armed branch of the junta. They were both residing in Min Kone Village, in Sagaing Region's Kawlin Township. Htet Nay Chi Min was evading arrest due to her involvement in CDM. Their bodies were found by local villagers at the Taung Phi Village hill on February 23. Their hands were tied behind their backs, and knife wounds were found on their necks and hands. They were reportedly raped and killed, but this information has not been independently confirmed.

Case ID:	AYE-20220601-01625
Victim Name:	Aye Aye Win
Age:	42
Arrest Date:	March 5, 2022
Deceased Date:	March 5, 2022
Location:	Pauk Township, Magway Region
Case History:	On the evening of March 5, the armed branch of the junta raided and fired artillery shells at Inn Nge Daunk Village, Pauk Township, Magway Region. The military soldiers arrested Aye Aye Win, age 42, and her daughter Yati Moe, age 3, while they were preparing to flee. Aye Aye Win was raped and then killed at a public shelter, called a zayat in Burmese, in front of her home. Yati Moe was stabbed in the chest, according to the local community. In addition to this, Aye Aye Win's daughter Thin Thin Moe, age 11, was arrested and taken by junta soldiers. Her body was found at a creek near the village.

Selected Case Profiles: Survivors Raped During Interrogation

Through its interviews, AAPP learned of political prisoners who were raped during interrogation and released alive. The two selected cases below have been included here with the victims' consent.

Codename:	R-01 (aka S-02 herein)
Age:	22
Gender:	LGBT; Male
Arrest Date:	May 7, 2021
Released Date:	October 19, 2021
Location:	Local police station, Yangon Region
Case History:	R-01 was brought to a local police station for interrogation after he was arrested during a protest in Yangon. During the interrogation in the police station, R-01, also known as S-02, was severely tortured by the soldiers. The soldiers found out that R-01 identifies as gay and started threatening him, saying that "there are the criminals who want to have sex with you" in a 10-square-foot cell. The cell was dark except the light coming from a small ventilation hole. When R-01 was put into the cell after the interrogation, the three criminals were already there. Then, a soldier encouraged the criminals to rape R-01, who was then gang raped under the watch of the soldiers outside the cell.

Codename:	R-02
Age:	30
Gender	Male
Arrest Date:	December 12, 2021
Released Date:	December 20, 2021
Location:	Military interrogation center, Yangon Region
Case History:	R-02 was arrested at the Yangon airport upon arrival and sent to a government quarantine center to check in because of the COVID-19 restrictions at that time. Then, R-02 was handcuffed, had his eyes covered with a black cloth, and was brought from the quarantine center to a military interrogation center in an unknown location that same day. Soon after, the interrogation started; R-02 was beaten for an hour and questioned about information related to his work. Then, R-02 was sent back to the quarantine center at 2 a.m. The next day R-02 endured more severe physical torture the whole night. On the third day of interrogation—December 14—the soldiers urged R-02 to have sex with a woman detainee, whose pained voice was heard next door; they told him that R-02 would face a consequence if he refused. When R-02 refused to have sex with the other detainee, the soldiers raped R-02 for an hour. On December 15, a senior officer from the army and a police officer came to the quarantine center where he was detained and negotiated not to expose his rape case in exchange for dropping all the charges against R-02 and releasing him. R-02 was released after completing quarantine on December 20.

Article 7(1)(h) Persecution

According to the IIMM, evidence indicates that the crime against humanity of persecution has been committed in Burma.³¹ Likewise, AAPP's data show that in murdering, detaining, and torturing the people of Burma, Sit-Tat actively targets civilians for their political opinions, including opposition to Sit-Tat and support of the pro-democracy movement.³² Sit-Tat's acts of persecution may include its arbitrary property seizures, which demand additional attention in light of the impacts of these seizures on pro-democracy supporters across Burma.

In 2022, AAPP continued to collect evidence that Sit-Tat may be using arbitrary property seizure as a method of persecution against pro-democracy supporters in Burma. AAPP verified property seizures in 132 townships, or 40 percent of townships, across the country. These seizures have impacted at least 419 pro-democracy supporters—many of whom are politically-involved civilians, including 89 members of the National League for Democracy (NLD) and 99 members of Parliament. In 2022, AAPP documented Sit-Tat's seizure of at least 37 types of civilian property—in total, 534 immovable and movable items—as shown in Table 8.³³ Sit-Tat's property seizures did not stop at civilian homes; Sit-Tat also seized, inter alia, civilian-owned businesses, vehicles, private schools, clinics, warehouses, and community centers. In collecting evidence about these seizures, AAPP conducted interviews with 20 pro-democracy supporters whose properties Sit-Tat seized.

According to AAPP documentation, property seizures often occur in conjunction with an arrest warrant being issued for, or the detainment of, a civilian on account of their political activities or affiliations.³⁴ Based on AAPP interviews with victims who were already in hiding when their property was seized, the seizure left them with no chance to reclaim their property, as they would very likely face detainment upon their return to the property's location.

The data provided here intends to offer a starting point for further investigation into Sit-Tat's practice of property seizures targeting pro-democracy supporters.

³¹ IIMM 2022 Report, supra note 2, para. 7.

³² AAPP, supra note 14, paras. 156-58.

³³ These are the numbers documented by AAPP. The actual figures are likely much higher.

³⁴ Property seizures increased following the Sit-Tat labelling of the NUG, CRPH, and PDFs as terrorist groups under domestic anti-terrorism law in May 2021.

Table 9: Individuals Whose Property Sit-Tat Seized by State/Region (2022)

AAPP worked to confirm the identities of the 419 individual victims of property seizures and found that many are civilians who supported the NUG and opposed Sit-Tat. Regarding property seizures, Sit-Tat's primary targets included, inter alia, members of Parliament; NLD leaders and members from the national to township level; and well-known artists, mainly those from Yangon, such as singers, actors, film directors, beauty pageant queens, models, and make-up artists. The 419 individuals included 136 individuals whose backgrounds remain unknown, or are known but did not fit into one of the categories featured in this report. They are labeled as “Civilians” in Figure 8.

AAPP documentation from 2022 indicates that Sit-Tat intensified its property seizures in the months of January, February, March, and May. As shown in Table 10 and Table 11, civilian property was most often seized in Sagaing, Yangon, and Bago Regions, followed by Magway and Mandalay Regions. Overall, AAPP’s data indicate that property seizure is correlated with opposition to Sit-Tat in these regions.

Concluding Remarks

As AAPP documentation herein reveals, Sit-Tat has killed, detained, and tortured civilians in an arbitrary and extensive manner; committed sexual violence against civilians; and looted and seized civilian property since its failed coup on February 1, 2021. Still today, Sit-Tat's relentless and barbaric atrocities continue to destroy lives and livelihoods across Burma. In seeking justice against Sit-Tat for its crimes, the people of Burma need unequivocal support from the international community to pursue legal proceedings that could hold Sit-Tat accountable. Though Sit-Tat personnel who directly carry out these crimes on the ground remain largely unknown, these individuals are acting under the command and control of the SAC and Sit-Tat commanding officers. International accountability efforts should therefore include sanctioning and the eventual prosecution of these named leaders who are ultimately responsible for Sit-Tat's crimes.

Ensuring accountability is an essential component of transitional justice—initiatives of which AAPP and other pro-democracy allies are working on closely. As the Spring Revolution endures, civil society human rights documentation will remain critical in pursuing accountability for Sit-Tat's atrocities. Moving forward, AAPP will continue to support the people of Burma's pursuit by documenting Sit-Tat's human rights violations and sharing information consistently, credibly, and widely. Indeed, accountability will not be possible without civil society's extensive documentation efforts—or support from the international community for these efforts—to bring Sit-Tat to justice.

Appendix A: Definitions of Killing Methods and Codenames

The terms in the following chart describe the killing methods used by Sit-Tat against civilian populations across Burma. The codenames refer to categories of interviewees based on their firsthand experiences of Sit-Tat's violent tactics. According to AAPP's data security policy, codenames are used in this report to protect the interviewees' identities.³⁵

Killing Method	Description
Artillery	Sit-Tat used different types of artilleries in its offensive operations and caused civilian deaths, when, e.g., indiscriminately shelling villages.
Airstrike	Sit-Tat used fighter jets and attack helicopters to launch airstrikes, causing the deaths of a civilian population.
Death penalty	Sit-Tat applied death penalty against civilians and pro-democracy supporters. Before the failed coup, the death penalty has not been used in Burma in more than three decades.
Detainment	Killed in detainment means any person detained in any form by Sit-Tat (including junta troops, officials, or supporters) and subsequently killed, whether by force or neglect. In this report, "Detainment" deaths include individuals who were killed as a "Hostage" or "Human Shield," as well as those who were killed in "Interrogation" or "Prison."
Hostage	Sit-Tat arrested family members, loved ones, or others as hostages, if they could not find the wanted person.
Human shield	Sit-Tat arrested civilians and pro-democracy supporters and used them as human shields to protect Sit-Tat members from attack by resistance groups.
Interrogation	Sit-Tat arrested civilians and pro-democracy supporters and tortured them to death during interrogation.
Landmine	Sit-Tat used landmines which caused civilian casualties.
Physical assault	Sit-Tat used various forms of physical assault to kill civilians and pro-democracy supporters.
Prison	Sit-Tat used prisons across the country as detention centers or interrogation centers, where deaths of detainees occurred due to either torture or deprivation of healthcare.
Rape	Sit-Tat used rape in conjunction with murder against civilians and pro-democracy supporters; this means the individual was raped either before or after being killed.
Set fire alive	Sit-Tat arrested civilians and pro-democracy supporters and burned them alive.
Set fire dead body	Sit-Tat killed civilians and pro-democracy supporters and burned their dead bodies.
Shot	Sit-Tat killed civilians and pro-democracy supporters by shooting them.

³⁵ To maintain strict confidentiality, AAPP uses codenames to protect the interviewees as well as their families and relatives from life-threatening retaliation by Sit-Tat and its sympathizers.

Shot in head	Sit-Tat killed civilians and pro-democracy supporters by shooting them in the head.
Vehicle ramming	Sit-Tat killed civilians and pro-democracy supporters by ramming them with vehicles.
Codenames	Definition
S-00	“S” refers to survivors who were detained by Sit-Tat and released.
R-00	“R” refers to rape victims who were raped or underwent sexual violence by Sit-Tat .
P-00	“P” refers to civilians whose property was seized by Sit-Tat .

*According to its data security policy, including strict confidentiality requirements, AAPP uses codenames to refer to each interviewee to protect their personal identity and to avoid Sit-Tat's possible persecution against them, their families, and relatives. Each codename (e.g., “P-01”) stands for one civilian whose property was arbitrarily seized by Sit-Tat or its armed branches across the country.

Appendix D: Elements of Crimes Against Humanity

For Sit-Tat's human rights violations to be classified as crimes against humanity under the Rome Statute, they must be committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against any civilian population where the perpetrator had knowledge of the attack or intended the conduct to further the attack.³⁶ Brief legal definitions of these contextual elements of crimes against humanity are included below.³⁷

Widespread or systematic attack

“Widespread” encompasses “an attack carried out over a large geographical area or an attack in a small geographical area but directed against a large number of civilians,” excluding acts of isolated violence.³⁸ “Widespread refers to the large-scale nature of the attack and the number of targeted persons, while systematic refers to the “organized nature of the acts of violence and improbability of their random occurrence.”³⁹ Furthermore, systematic can refer to “an organised plan in furtherance of a common policy, which follows a regular pattern and results in a continuous commission of acts or as ‘patterns of crimes’ such that the crimes constitute a non-accidental repetition of similar criminal conduct on a regular basis.”⁴⁰

Directed against any civilian population

According to Article 7(2)(a) of the Rome Statute, “an attack directed against any civilian population means a course of conduct involving the multiple commission of acts referred to in paragraph 1 against any civilian population, pursuant to or in furtherance of a State or organizational policy to commit such an attack.”⁴¹ A civilian is anyone who “is not a member of the armed forces or otherwise a combatant.”⁴² Civilian population refers to a “collective” of civilians rather than an individual, and this population is not necessarily stripped of its civilian character by the presence of non-civilians.⁴³ In these situations, the Court will consider several factors to determine if the attack meets this requirement.⁴⁴

³⁶ Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court, art. 7(1), July 17, 1998, U.N. Doc. A/CONF.183/9, 2187 U.N.T.S. 90 [hereinafter Rome Statute].

³⁷ Definitions of these terms were also included in AAPP’s July 2022 report Accountability for the Junta Criminals, supra note 14.

³⁸ Prosecutor v. Katanga, Case No. ICC-01/04-01/07, Decision on the Confirmation of the Charges, paras. 394-95 (September 30, 2008).

³⁹ Prosecutor v. Harun and Abd-Al-Rahman, Case No. ICC-02/05-01/07, Decision on the Prosecution Application under Article 58(7) of the Statute, para. 62 (Apr. 27, 2007) (internal quotations omitted); see Prosecutor v. Blaškić, Case No. IT-95-14-T, Judgement, para. 206 (International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia, Mar. 3, 2000) (describing widespread as being “directed against a multiplicity of victims” or being defined “by the cumulative effect of a series of inhumane acts or the singular effect of an inhumane act of extraordinary magnitude”) (internal quotations omitted).

⁴⁰ Katanga, supra note 38, para. 397.

⁴¹ Rome Statute, supra note 36, art. 7(2)(a).

⁴² Prosecutor v. Stanišić and Simatović, Case No. IT-03-69-T, Judgement, para. 965 (International Criminal Tribunal for the former Yugoslavia, May 30, 2013).

⁴³ Prosecutor v. Bemba, Case No. ICC-01/05-01/08, Judgment pursuant to Article 74 of the Statute, para. 153 (March 21, 2016).

“Directed against” requires that the civilian population must be the primary, rather than incidental, target of the attack.⁴⁵ Notably, there is no requirement that the individual victims be civilians.⁴⁶

Perpetrator’s knowledge of the attack

The mental element for crimes against humanity is that the perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of, or intended the conduct to be part of, a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population, but does not require the perpetrator to know all of the details of the attack.⁴⁷ “Knowledge” is defined in Article 30 of the Rome Statute as “awareness that a circumstance exists or a consequence will occur in the ordinary course of events.”⁴⁸

Sit-Tat*’s Crimes Addressed in this Report

This report addresses the crimes committed by Sit-Tat and its armed branches under the following sub-articles of Article 7(1) of the Rome Statute:

- (a) Murder;
- (e) Imprisonment or other severe deprivation of physical liberty in violation of fundamental rules of international law;
- (f) Torture;
- (g) Rape, sexual slavery, enforced prostitution, forced pregnancy, enforced sterilization, or any other form of sexual violence of comparable gravity;
- (h) Persecution against any identifiable group or collectivity on political, racial, national, ethnic, cultural, religious, gender as defined in paragraph 3, or other grounds that are universally recognized as impermissible under international law, in connection with any act referred to in this paragraph or any crime within the jurisdiction of the Court.

The elements of these crimes, including the contextual elements defined above, are listed below.

Murder

Under Article 7(1)(a), the crime against humanity of murder requires that:

1. The perpetrator killed one or more persons.
2. The conduct was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.
3. *The perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of or intended the conduct to be part of a widespread or systematic attack against a civilian population.*⁴⁹

Imprisonment or Other Severe Deprivation of Physical Liberty

Under Article 7(1)(e), the crime against humanity of imprisonment or other severe deprivation of physical liberty requires that:

⁴⁵ Id. para. 154.

⁴⁶ Id. para. 156.

⁴⁷ INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL COURT, ELEMENTS OF CRIMES, art. 7 no. 2 (2013) [hereinafter ELEMENTS OF CRIMES] (“[T]he last element should not be interpreted as requiring proof that the perpetrator had knowledge of all characteristics of the attack or the precise details of the plan or policy of the State or organization. In the case of an emerging widespread or systematic attack against a civilian population, the intent clause of the last element indicates that this mental element is satisfied if the perpetrator intended to further such an attack.”).

⁴⁸ Rome Statute, supra note 36, art. 30(3).

⁴⁹ ELEMENTS OF CRIMES, supra note 47, art. 7(1)(a).

1. The perpetrator imprisoned one or more persons or otherwise severely deprived one or more persons of physical liberty.
2. The gravity of the conduct was such that it was in violation of fundamental rules of international law.
3. The perpetrator was aware of the factual circumstances that established the gravity of the conduct.
4. The conduct was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.
5. *The perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of or intended the conduct to be part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.*⁵⁰

Torture

Under Article 7(1)(f), the crime against humanity of torture requires:

1. The perpetrator inflicted severe physical or mental pain or suffering upon one or more persons.
2. Such person or persons were in the custody or under the control of the perpetrator.
3. Such pain or suffering did not arise only from, and was not inherent in or incidental to, lawful sanctions.
4. The conduct was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.
5. *The perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of or intended the conduct to be part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.*⁵¹

Rape

Under Article 7(1)(g), the crime against humanity of rape requires:

1. The perpetrator invaded the body of a person by conduct resulting in penetration, however slight, of any part of the body of the victim or of the perpetrator with a sexual organ, or of the anal or genital opening of the victim with any object or any other part of the body.
2. The invasion was committed by force, or by threat of force or coercion, such as that caused by fear of violence, duress, detention, psychological oppression or abuse of power, against such person or another person, or by taking advantage of a coercive environment, or the invasion was committed against a person incapable of giving genuine consent.
3. The conduct was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.
4. *The perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of or intended the conduct to be part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.*⁵²

Persecution

Under Article 7(1)(h), the crime against humanity of persecution requires:

1. The perpetrator severely deprived, contrary to international law, one or more persons of fundamental rights.
2. The perpetrator targeted such person or persons by reason of the identity of a group or collectivity or targeted the group or collectivity as such.
3. Such targeting was based on political, racial, national, ethnic, cultural, religious, gender as defined in article 7, paragraph 3, of the Statute, or other grounds that are universally recognized as impermissible under international law.
4. The conduct was committed in connection with any act referred to in article 7, paragraph 1, of the Statute or any crime within the jurisdiction of the Court.

⁵⁰ Id. art. 7(1)(e).

⁵¹ Id. art. 7(1)(f).

⁵² Id. art. 7(1)(g).

5. The conduct was committed as part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.
6. *The perpetrator knew that the conduct was part of or intended the conduct to be part of a widespread or systematic attack directed against a civilian population.*⁵³

⁵³ Id. art. 7(1)(h).
